AFRO-ASIAN Congress on Microbes for Human and Environmental Health (MicrobioTech-2014)

Dates: 24–26 September 2014

Amity University Uttar Pradesh is organizing a three-day congress on 'Microbes for Human and Environmental Health'. The congress will provide a forum to discuss the latest developments in science and technology of microbial aspects and nutritional quality of food. The goal of the congress is to come out with an effective strategy for improving human and environment health in the developed and developing countries.

Structure of the conference: There will be four technical sessions on the following four themes:

- Microbial enhancement of productivity and nutritional quality of crop, livestock and fish
- Enteromicrobes and ectomicrobes in human and animal health
- Microbial management of the quality of human macro–micro environment
- Effect of climate change on the beneficial soil and plant microbes
