Advt No. 1/2000

National Brain Research Centre (NBRC) is an autonomous organization of the Department of Biotechnology, Ministry of Science and Technology, Government of India. The major objective of NBRC is to undertake basic research to understand brain structure and function in health and disease. NBRC would act as a National Apex Coordinating Centre for neuroscience research and would consolidate and network existing neuroscience research groups in the country. The centre would be located at Manesar, Gurgaon (Haryana), 40 km from New Delhi. NBRC would like to recruit neuroscientists holding Indian citizenship for carrying out research activities of the Centre. A demonstrated record of scientific productivity in the form of publications in peer-reviewed scientific journals of repute is essential. Some indication of independent research activity would be desirable. The major research areas of interest are cognitive neuroscience, computational neuroscience, neurogenetics and neurodegenerative diseases.

Appointments offered would range from Staff Scientist III upward, as are available in sister R&D Centres/Institutions. Experience and quality of scientific work/productivity record would help decide the level of appointments as well as the salary. Investigators are expected and will be encouraged to bring in extramural project based funding for research, although initial seed money would be provided by the Centre.
