

WiS Panel of the Indian Academy of Sciences

The Women in Science Panel of Indian Academy of Sciences has initiated a study entitled 'Scientific Women Power: what percent are we losing and why?'. The Panel intends to create a comprehensive database of women scientists with a doctoral degree in the country in order to facilitate the study. The database will include all women who have completed a doctoral degree in pure or applied sciences, engineering, technology and medicine, who may or may not be pursuing an academic and scientific career.

Should you fall within the scope of this database, independent of whether you are currently pursuing an academic and scientific career, please register at the following URL:

<http://www.ias.ac.in/womensci>

We expect the database to be of use in attempts to analyse and understand issues regarding the participation of Women in Science at all levels. Please also bring this advertisement and website to the notice of other women who fall in the scope of this study. Thank you. Please visit <http://www.ias.ac.in/womeninscience/> for further information on the activities of the WiS Panel. By registering, you will be able to get the occasional Newsletter of the Panel and access information on other women scientists.

Rohini Godbole
Chair, Panel on Women in Science